This website offers an overview of rigorous research including research methods, data collection, and data analysis.

The University of Queensland, Australia has a very useful website for its Teaching and Educational Development Institute designed for the faculty and staff of the university. The website offers clear information and lessons on different aspects of research, as well as a variety of resources includes sample rubrics, outcomes, and assessments. The focus of most of the research content of the site is on institutional assessment, but the information is useful in all types of research activities, and it provides an extensive list of resources including books, articles, and websites.
